The Treaty of Waitangi principles of partnership, participation and protection underpin the service. These principles provide the framework for the planning and delivery of the services we offer.

There is no cost for using our service.

Anyone can contact this service for assistance.

We prefer you to come to our service with a referral from your GP as she/he is your main health care provider and will continue to be involved in your care.

Next Steps

After we have received your referral we will probably need to talk with you by telephone to gain further information about the difficulties you are experiencing so we can work out if this is the best service to meet your needs. Then, if needed, we will arrange a meeting with one of our team so that we can work with you.

This meeting can take place at the Te Rawhiti Community Mental Health Centre, in your home or at another arranged meeting place.

Some people may only need one or two appointments, after which we will provide advice back to the GP who will be responsible for ongoing treatment.

Treatment for people who require longer term services from Te Rawhiti may include some or all of the following:

- Information and education about mental health problems and treatment options
- Psychological therapies
- Medication prescription and/or review
- Referral to other services

We welcome and encourage (with your consent) the involvement and participation of your whanau and family or other support people in the planning and delivery of your treatment.

Information concerning your treatment will be communicated with your GP. If you have any concerns about this you should discuss them with our staff.

If English is your second language and you require an interpreter, please let us know prior to your first appointment.
